

2pm A still Life

A woman prepares to make tea, and we hear Rachmaninoff's Variations on a Theme of Corelli. Something different happens with each variation. There is no spoken dialogue. This film is approximately 21 minutes long.

4.30 Spoke on the water Documentary

Set against the backdrop of stunning scenery in the Scottish Highlands, Spoke on the Water documents the heart-warming adventure of a group of men attempting the not quite impossible but seemingly mad, challenge of navigating the deep and temperamental waters of Loch Ness – a distance of some thirty miles – on a pedalo. Featuring the sporadic, sharp-tongued interventions of Graham Hughes (The Libertine), the smallest presenter with the biggest mouth and narrated by Ralph Ineson (The Office, First Knight) Spoke on the Water is a feel-good tale of ordinary people doing an extraordinary thing.

6.30 Hunted like animals Documentary

Hunted like animals is an eye-opening documentary about an ongoing, but unknown, genocide - against the Hmong people in the jungles of Laos. Coerced into joining the CIA's anti-communist efforts during the Viet Nam war, this ethnic minority became a Secret Army.
